EXPERIMENTS.

These be times of fads and wrinkles, these be hot and restless days; anything that's new attracts us from the old, time-honored ways. And the customs of our fathers we, the children, have outgrown; and the wisdom of the sages seems to us a futile moan. We must introduce new fashions in the way of government; we must claw the constitution till it isn't worth a cent; and some day we'll view the errors we are making with a sigh—for it isn't safe to monkey when the goose is hanging high. Here's a country fat and sassy, where the toiler gets reward, where all men are free and equal and there's neither serf nor lord; it has grown to might and glory 'neath the system of our dads, but these latter day reformers, with an eye upon the scads, with "the people" as their slogan, say the ancient forms shall die—and it's never safe to monkey when the goose is hanging high. Oh, the people would be happy if they were left alone; if the wild-eyed cranks would never teach them how to wail and groan. They would do their work and prosper, putting money in the banks, if they only weren't flim-flammed by experimental cranks, who would tinker with the law books as she-tailors do with gowns, making hobbie constitutions, harem laws and handmedowns. If reformers were abolished we might have a cloudless sky, but they'll always raise Old Harry when the goose is hanging high.

CHURCHES' WELFARE IS AIM OF MEETING

Similar Sessions Will Be Held by Pastors.

The fellowship meeting of the various Christian churches of the District, held last night in Vermont Avenue Christian Church, was such a success that it was voted to hold three meetings every year. Rev. Mr. Wilkey was authorized to appoint a committee to make arrangements for the next meeting. Among the pastors present last night were Rev. W. F. Smith, of Whitney Avenue Christian Church; Rev. ARNOLDS MOURN DEATH.

New York, April 11.—Though not neglecting any means of recovering his daughter, Miss Dorothy Arnold, who disappeared mysteriously on December 12, Francis B. Arnold, the girl's father, has ordered the entire family to go into mourning.

Mr. Arnold had insisted from the outset that his daughter must have met her death, but not until to-day did he feel that the family mourning the girl was dead. Mr. Arnold still retains the services of a private detective agency and every semblance of a clue is run down.

NEW YORK AT EASTERTIDE

Fifth Avenue, in Front of the St. Regis Hotel, the Center of the Annual Parade of Spring Fashions.

New York's annual Easter Sunday parade on Fifth Avenue is the most attractive of the metropolis that attracts thousands of visitors. Those whose tastes, opportunities, or inclinations lead them to participate in the event and to join the throng of smartly attired people passing up and down this great thoroughfare—on foot, in carriages, and in automobiles—are rewarded beyond their fondest anticipations by the bewildering spectacle. In the very center of this gay parade, at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, is located the Hotel St. Regis, the most natural as well as the most convenient stopping place for Easter visitors to New York. The St. Regis offers its guests a unique and hitherto unparalleled combination in hotel facilities and service. To a building erected and equipped to be the finest hotel in America has been added a service perfect but unostentatious; and, but never obtrusive. Attentive, yet never obsequious. The St. Regis restaurant has no superior in all the world in quality of food, skill in preparation and perfection of service; while the charges are no higher than those of other first-class hotels. Transient guests coming to New York and stopping at the Hotel St. Regis will find accommodations of the very highest grade in every particular, and at standard rates. Single rooms are $3 and $4 a day; the same with private bath for $5 a day (or $6 for two people); while for a parlor, bedroom, and private bath the rates are $12 a day and up.

LEGISLATORS' AID FOR CLERKS' CAUSE

Senator Jones Dwells on High Cost of Living.

That the government clerks are steadily winning friends among legislators who will be asked to grant their requests for better salaries was evidenced yesterday at the meeting of the Council of Jewish Women in Eighth Street Temple, when Senator Wesley L. Jones, of Washington, spoke on the need of raising the government clerks' pay.

Senator Jones laid particular stress on the increased cost of living during the past decade and said salaries of the clerks were the only ones which had not in a measure kept pace of the times. He cited the pension plans of the big corporations as a standard to which the government should adjust its employees.

Mrs. Archibald Hopkins spoke of the welfare work of the Civic Federation, and the good accomplished among the poorer classes. A piano solo by Miss Mildred Rider was followed by a social hour.

The annual election of officers will be held in Eighth Street Temple, May 8, at 8 o'clock.

"CARMEN" IS WELL SUNG.

French Grand Opera Company Delights Belasco Audience.

"CARMEN," the opera that will never grow old, was the bill presented by the French Grand Opera Company of New Orleans, at the Belasco Theater, before an audience composed of those who evidently did not consider that going to grand opera in Holy Week was exactly the same as going to see a comedy or something light and trivial. Or, perhaps, it was that they could not resist the temptation of the bewitching music of the French opera with the Spanish locale.

While there are many compositions that hold a high place in the popular favor, it is doubtful if there is any opera which contains so many familiar numbers as "Carmen," and the rendition of each well-known selection last night was the signal for an outburst of applause. Particularly was this the case with the "Love, Thou Art a Wild Bird Tamed" in the first act, the Toreador song and the fortune-telling duet. So insistent was the audience after Escamillo's solo that M. Montano had to repeat it, although it is supposed to be the strict rule of the company that no encores are to be given.

The cast last night was entirely different from that in "Mignon" on Monday. Mlle. Corder was cast as Carmen, and the selection proved a happy one, for in addition to a clear mezzo-soprano voice she possesses considerable dramatic ability, and her final scene with Don Jose was admirably done. Her work last night augurs well for the other performances in which she is to appear during this engagement.

M. Montano's tenor was heard to the best advantage in "The Flower Teller" Gavest to Mlle. solo, and in the duets with Carmen, while M. Montano's barytone swept the house in the torador number. Mlle. Corder made a pleasing Micaela, while the remainder of the cast was well placed. The chorus work was admirable, particularly in the cigarette number in the opening act, and the final scene before the bull fight.

Mlle. Corder's clear soprano was almost lost in a minor role, but it is to be hoped that she will be given a more prominent part next week.

"La Traviata" and "Les Huguenots" will be the bills at the matinee and evening performances to-day.

Mme. von Unschuld leaves to-day for New York, where she will finish a series of recitals which she has been giving there this season.
